It's That Time of The Year Again!

By: Austin Spiller

Thanksgiving came and left, and now Christmas has snuck upon us very quickly. December has come with the blink of an eye. While time has flown by very quickly, and it is hard to believe Christmas is almost here, which is my favorite time of the year.

Christmas is my favorite holiday, and part of the year because there is more joy and happiness; people are happy to see family again. Sure, I do enjoy getting gifts for Christmas, but that's just a small part of why I love it. We have a family tradition, every year on Christmas Day around noon we all go to my grandma's to eat. The food is always great every year, normally my grandma fixes meatballs that go very quickly, and just about everyone loves them. Then, of course, there's my grandma's pumpkin pie and cherry pie, which I love both. You have to be quick on those two desserts as well, especially the cherry because everyone heads straight towards the pie after they're done eating, including me. Some of my family moved down to Alabama, so no one really sees them a lot. They will probably come up for Christmas this year, that way everyone can listen to what they have to say about Alabama and what it's like. In the end Christmas is about being with family, celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ, and giving, whether it be something expensive or inexpensive.

Christmas is Upon Us

By: Elizabeth Campbell

Christmas is a holiday to give gifts and spend time with family, but to me it means so much more. Christmas is a time to celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ. My family and I plan on attending a church service this Christmas morning since it is on Sunday, and then we will do our Christmas traditions. Everyone celebrates Christmas differently, but as long as you know the true meaning of Christmas, it doesn't matter how you spend the day.

I start my Christmas celebrations the day we get out of school for break. My brother, cousin, and I go to my granny's house and watch Christmas movies, and we stay all night with her. When we wake up, we have homemade pancakes, and then we start baking cookies. We always have a great time baking cookies because we don't get to spend much time together anymore now that we have all grown up. Decorating the cookies is the best part about it. We made the icing whatever colors we want, and we have all sort of sprinkles; it usually ends up in a big mess with icing everywhere. I think this is my favorite Christmas tradition.

For as long as I can remember, my dad's side of the family celebrates Christmas on Christmas Eve. For the past few years, everyone has gathered at my house, and we have dinner. My mom usually cooks everything, and it all tastes very well. Once we eat, we all go to my living room, and open presents. We always start with the youngest child which is my cousin, Tatianna, who is four-years-old. My brother and I only open one gift on Christmas Eve and it is pajamas. Our parents pick out pajamas for us to wear to bed and open presents in on Christmas morning. Once everyone has opened their presents we say good night, and my dad and I take my aunt Sue and Uncle Everett home. Before we take them home, we drive around town to look at all of the beautiful Christmas decorations. The smile on my aunt's face is the best part of the night. I hope to keep that tradition going forever.

On Christmas day, my brother and I wake up our parents around nine o'clock in the morning, and we have to wait in the hall because my dad likes to video us opening our presents. Once he has the camera set up, we go in and my brother and I take turns opening presents. Usually it is a significant amount of clothes and maybe something else. When we are finished opening presents we get ready to go to my granny's house; we always wear one of our new outfits. She has stockings for everyone in the family. She even hangs one for my grandpa that passed away five years ago, that way it is as if he is still there with us. We open the gifts in our stockings, and then we go eat dinner; my granny is the best cook, so the food is always amazing. After dinner, we go to her living room and open the big gifts. It is always lots of fun because we are a very close family. After all the presents are open, we go have dessert and say goodnight. Christmas is a great holiday, and spending time with family makes it even better.

Let it Snow, Let it Snow

By: Johannah Fisher

December has rolled around and one, four-lettered word is on my mind. This four-lettered word happens to be SNOW! Winter is my second favorite season, after fall, and I love how beautiful snow makes the world look. It makes the trees glisten, and the yard shine. I love being able to bundle up, and go outside to play in the snow with my sister, and little cousins.

Sledding is probably one of my favorite things to do when it snows. At my house, my sister and I tie a sled to the back of our four-wheeler. I usually drive, while my sister rides the sleigh. We drive the four-wheeler up to my Nanas' in the big open field, and then I drive around with Kailee on the back. Last year we went to my uncles sledding, and I defiantly had the most fun there. He ties a big sled to the back of his Kubota, so two people can drive while two people ride on the sled. He has a bigger field that has hills which makes the sledding so much more fun.

I also like to build snowman in the snow with my sister and my cousins. We try to make it the biggest snowman ever, but we never get it as big as we want it. Last year, we built a snowman and dressed it up in a bathing suit, and made it pig tails. I just love the special bond that my family and I share during a snow day.

Of course, my favorite thing about a snow day is getting a snow day, and not going to school. I can sleep in, and enjoy my day at home. If I am behind on work, I can do it then. But, of course, my favorite thing about a day off is going to play in the snow. No matter how old I get, I still love the sound of my boots crunching on the snow, I love the taste of snowflakes lading on my tongue, I love the feel of my cheeks becoming hot and rosy, I just love almost everything about snow.

It's crazy that December is already here, and the New Year is getting ready to begin. I'm so excited to see how much snow we will get this year, and how pretty it will be. I love everything about winter, even the coldness. I can just wrap my blanket around me, enjoy a nice cup of hot chocolate and read a good adventurous book.

Hardworking Kailee

By: Johannah Fisher

The month of December has rolled around, and teachers have been on the look-out for a student from each grade to be named as student of the month. This month teachers have picked Kailee Fisher to represent the freshman class as student of the month.

Kailee Fisher is a freshman here, at Ripley High School. She is currently taking four classes: World Studies taught by Mr. Bowery, Plant and Animal Science taught by Mrs. Schelling, Health taught by Mr. Woodruff, and Spanish taught by Mrs. Douglas. Next semester she will be taking four more classes: Digital Media taught by Mrs. Ream, Advanced English 9 taught by Mr. Scanlan, Advanced Geometry taught by Mr. Mckission, and Physical Science taught by Mr. Buam. Currently, her favorite class is World Studies. She said, "My favorite class is World Studies. This is because I like learning about the past and Mr. Bowery makes learning fun."

Kailee was a little surprised about getting freshman student of the month because she just does what she is told. When I asked her to describe her student image she said, "I am hardworking and follow instructions." Mr. Bowery said, "Kailee puts in the extra effort necessary to not only understand the content, but to perform well on assessments."

Outside of school Kailee participates in soccer, and in the Huntington Hotshots 4H Club. In 4H she works on many and different community projects. Other than this Kailee likes to spend her spare time hunting and fishing. She also likes to go outside and spend time playing and enjoying time with her little cousins. When she is not doing any of these activities, she likes to take naps.

When it comes to being motivated Kailee said, "My parents and teacher, and my desire to get into college motivates me to do my best in school." Her number one role model, however, is her Pappy, Gary Shelton. She said this is because he has taught her to be hard working and brave, but also humble at the same time. Her plans for the future is to attend Morehead State University, to become a soil technician.

If Kailee had to give someone advice she would say, "School can be easy and fun as long as you do your work and follow directions." Congratulations to Kailee for being a hardworking student and receiving student freshman of the month.

Genius Joseph

By: Elizabeth Campbell

Student of the month is an honor to receive. To be a student of the month, you must show interest and effort, in and out of the classroom. December's student of the month is Joseph Blum. Joseph should be proud of the work he has accomplished.

Joseph Blum is a sophomore here at Ripley High School, and this year he is enrolled in Health, Spanish 1, History, ROTC, Biology, Algebra 2, and Advanced English 10. Most of these are required for him to graduate, but he chose ROTC because it may help him if he decides to join the Marine Corps. Joseph is intelligent; he is receiving all A's in his classes. He doesn't study in all of his classes, he said, "I only study in one class, Spanish, because it is hard for me to understand." Joseph excels not only in the classroom, but out of the classroom too. Joseph is involved with Pep Band, Musicals, Color Guard, Soccer, and he is a part of the Cyber Patriot team. Once he graduates, he is considering joining the Marine Corps to fly. Joseph has big plans for the future.

Student of the month may not be important to some people, but to others, it is a great honor. Joseph believes he was awarded with student of the month because he is involved with lots of things and can manage them and keep his grades up as well. He said, "I feel honored because there are lots of people that could get this." Joseph deserves student of the month, and luckily, he knows he deserves it. He said, "I deserve it because I do what I'm told and I try."

Most students who receive the student of the month award show leadership in the classroom. When asked if he felt that he shows leadership in the classroom, Joseph said, "Only in ROTC because I get a chance to show leadership." These students don't just show leadership, but they also have to have motivation. Joseph's parents motivate him, but he is also motivated by the thought of the career he wants. He said his father is his role model because he works hard, and he knows what it is like to be a teenager.

Joseph Blum has worked tremendously hard to become the student of the month, yet he doesn't flaunt it. He is a humble young man who is destined to do great things in life. Joseph's advice to his fellow classmates is to "do what you are told, and just try. As long as you do that, you will pass." Great advice Joseph, and congratulations on being December's sophomore student of the month.

Achieving Andrea

By: Austin Spiller

Andrea Preston has been nominated for Junior Student of the Month. Andrea said she thinks that she has been nominated because she works hard in all of her classes and does whatever it takes to go beyond what is expected. As for a favorite class, it has to be Mr. Bowery's Psychology class, "It's my favorite because everything makes sense, and it clicks with me." One class that Andrea didn't like so much was Financial Literacy, "Financial Literacy was by far the hardest class in my high school career because I took it as a freshman and didn't take my classes as serious as I do now." When asking Andrea what it feels like to be a year from graduating she said that it feels unreal. She feels as if fifth grade was yesterday.

Since college applications are only a year away, Andrea is planning on getting a head start on things, "I plan on taking college credit plus classes through Southern State next year, then going to either go to NKU or MSU and get my Doctoral Degree." Since Andrea is going into Psychology to get her Doctoral degree, she is planning on being a Child Psychologist, "I want to be a Child Psychologist because psychology makes sense to me and I love learning about it. I want to work at a Children's hospital and help children through their mental illness or help them through whatever disease they are facing." Aside from school, some of Andrea's hobbies consist of volleyball, softball, playing music, and reading, "Out of the two sports I have a bigger passion for volleyball, I've been playing ever since I was able and I've worked hard to have a starting position on the team. Other than those I spend the rest of my time working at Rockin' Robins." In five or six years Andrea hopes to be attending college, or moving to Virginia to live with her family, and working at a Children's hospital in the city, along with getting her Doctoral degree.

Helpful Hannah

By: Johannah Fisher

Teachers were on the search this December for a student from each grade to represent the title, “Student of the Month.” This month teachers chose Hannah Sharp. Hannah Sharp is a senior here at RULH High school, and will be representing the senior class as student of the month.

Hannah is only taking three classes at high school this year. These include: Spanish 1, taught by Mrs. Douglas, Global Foods, taught by Mrs. Rau, and English 12, taught by Mrs. Fannin. Out of these three classes her favorite is Spanish 1. When I asked her why she replied with, “...it’s easier than I thought, and I get along with the teacher.”

Hannah was surprised to get student of the month because she said that she is mostly quiet in school. She describes her student image as, “quiet and well mannered.” Hannah is a hard worker and is very eager to learn. Mrs. Douglas nominated Hannah and said, “Hannah Sharp is an awesome person. She's eager to learn, and the first to offer help to anyone in need. She looks for ways to improve her own learning, as well as providing support for those who struggle. She is kind, caring, and very capable. I would like to clone her!”

Hannah does not participate in any extra-curricular activities, but outside of school she likes to sleep, cook, clean, and read. Hannah is very excited to graduate high school, but she is also a little scared. Hannah says, “Yes I’m excited to graduate but no. Ready to grow up and be on my own but also a little scared.’ Her parents are what motivates her to do her very best in school, and they encourage her to become successful for a bright future. Her number one role model is her mother, because she has been through a lot.

If Hannah had to give advice to underclassman she would say, “Don’t slack because you think you have time to make up, time flies.’ Congratulations to Hannah Sharp for all her hard work and becoming December’s senior student of the month.

Staff of the Month

By: Austin Spiller

December's Staff of the Month goes to Sergeant Major Kokensparger. Sergeant Major began working here at Ripley in July of 2002. He said, "I had interviews with the Principal (Mr. Brad Moffitt) and school board members to be considered for employment as a Marine Corps JROTC Instructor." Sergeant Major enjoys working here and thinks a lot about Ripley, "It's a small, clean, school with a great deal of potential for students to learn and become productive citizens in the community and our country."

When Sergeant Major was seventeen, he enlisted into the service, he then served for more than thirty years of active duty in the United States Marine Corps. He also attended Liberty University, in Lynchburg, VA where he earned a degree in General Studies. Since Sergeant Major was coming to a public school system to work, it was a lot different than working in the armed services, "Working in a civilian public school system is quite different than working in the armed services. In the Marine Corps I had more authority with decision making, as a 'Sergeant Major,' when dealing with the leadership, training, discipline, and the welfare of personnel." When asking Sergeant Major about how it felt to help a student in order to be successful he said, "Knowing that you helped mold a young student's mind in order for them to be successful in their lives is probably worth more than any medal a service member could receive or any amount of accolades a civilian could earn."

Fashion-Friendly Josiah

By: Elizabeth Campbell

December's male fashion of the month goes to Josiah Staggs. Josiah is a junior here at Ripley-Union-Lewis-Huntington High School. Josiah is one of the most stylish young men at our school. He was asked a few questions about his look, so we can know the secrets behind his special style.

Josiah is always wearing something stylish that is in season, but don't be fooled, he only goes shopping every three to four months. He really only shops at American Eagle outfitters and Hibbett Sports. He likes both stores very much but he prefers American Eagle outfitters because "it has dressy clothes." Josiah spends approximately sixty to seventy dollars monthly on clothes. Right now, online shopping is very popular, but Josiah said he likes to shop in the store because he likes to try his clothes on before he buys them.

Everyone has a favorite outfit, and Josiah's favorite outfit is his denim button up shirt, tan joggers, and white shoes. Some men like to wear wrist watches or hats, but Josiah doesn't wear many accessories, if any at all. We all have lazy days when we don't feel like dressing up. When asked what he wears on his lazy days, Josiah said, "Basketball shorts and a hoodie." Even on his lazy days, Josiah is still very fashion forward.

We all describe our looks differently, and Josiah describes his look as a skater look. He doesn't look like a bum, and he doesn't dress up too much, he has that casual style. He says his shoes are his favorite part about his unique look because he always wears shoes that are in style. Our clothing sometimes reflects our personality, and when asked if he thought his style did, he replied with, "Sometimes my sense of style reflects my personality, but not always."

Being awarded fashion of the month means that you stand out for your sense of style. Josiah's style is special, and I asked him who he gets his fashion advice from, and he said his mom. Josiah has some advice for any of you young men who are envious of his look, "Wear what you like and what you think you look best in." Good advice Josiah. Dr. Seuss once said, "Today you are you, that is truer than true. There is no one alive who is youer than you." Josiah's advice goes along very well with Dr. Seuss's.

Creative-Looking Charity

By: Johannah Fisher

All over Ripley High School boys and girls show off their one-of-a-kind outfits and personalities. One girl who really sticks out for her fashion and unique style is Charity York. Charity is a senior here at Ripley high school, and was chosen for December's girl fashion of the month. Charity is a person whom does not get her fashion advice from someone, she just wears what makes her happy and what she likes.

Many different days you can see Charity dressing in different ways, which makes her fashion very unique. One thing I really notice about Charity is the way she puts her outfits together. She makes them look very artistic and creative. Charity, however, does not feel like her outfits reflect her personality. She says, "In a way I guess it could but you can't really get to know someone by how they dress (other than when I'm wearing fandom merchandise)." Charity does wear a lot of fandom clothing, and many times you can catch her wearing Harry Potter clothing, and she almost always has a Camp Half Blood necklace on from the famous books Percy Jackson.

Charity only goes shopping every few months, but when she does she gets her clothing from all over and mostly in small shops. When I asked her about her spending habits, she responded with, "I honestly don't spend money on clothes every month, maybe every few months." When going to school Charity wears a variety of different outfits. It all really just depends on how she feels that morning. One day it may be jeans and a hoodie, and the next day it could be legging and a nice shirt.

Casual is the word she uses to describe her look. When I asked her what her favorite part of her outfits was, she responded, "How comfortable I am in them because who would want to wear clothes that make them uncomfortable?" Not that often will you find Charity with accessories on. On some occasions she likes to wear a pair of ear rings or a small necklace. She says, "But I absolutely have to have my bracelet and 4 hair ties on my left wrist as often as possible." On her lazy days she prefers to wear jeans, leggings, or joggers with a t-shirt and a jacket or hoodie.

Charity is a very unique with a creative fashion. Congratulations to Charity for being chosen to represent her one-of-a-kind look in the month of December.

Car of the Month

By: Austin Spiller

December's car of the month has been awarded to junior Kyle Gillman. Kyle owns a red 2002 Chevy Cavalier LS Sport, he received this car his sophomore year in January 2015. Chevy Cavaliers, if well kept, can reach up to 200,000 miles, and even more. Kyle's has around 120,000 of usage. Kyle's car has a fuel economy of 21mpg in the city, and 30mpg on highway. So far, Kyle hasn't had any major issues with his car.

If there was something on the car that Kyle liked most it was simply that it gets him where he needs to go, such as school or other errands, "My favorite thing about it is that it gets me to where I need to go and runs really good." If there was anything that Kyle wished his car had it would have to be heated seats. He would like to have them because of how cold it can get in the winter time and it would be especially nice when looking back on how cold the past two winters were at times. If money was no object and Kyle could have any car he wanted, it would most likely be a luxury car, a BMW. To be exact, the BMW 7 Series, it's similar in size to what he is used to driving, and isn't very obstructive. Although in the end, Kyle is just happy that he even has a vehicle of his own to get around places, and to school.

Christmas Survey

By: Stephanie Colston

The holiday season is here. Christmas is just around the corner and some students of Ripley High School were given a series of questions that revolved around the Christmas season. The results are below.

1.) Do you spend Christmas with your family?

Yes- 32

No- 1

2.) Do you enjoy Christmas?

Yes- 33

No- 0

3.) What do you value about Christmas?

Most answered with presents; some answered with family and friends, and one person answered that they value Jesus the most.

History of Christmas

By: Elizabeth Campbell

What do you think of when you hear Christmas? Do you think of Santa Clause? Or Evergreen trees with ornaments and lights? Do you think of lots of presents? All of these are parts of the Christmas season, but there is only one reason Christmas is a holiday. Do you know the real reason?

Christmas is a holiday that was created to celebrate the birth of Jesus. Jesus is a religious figure, known as the Son of God, for Christians who was sent by their God to save the people from sin, and although many do not believe the same way as Christians, it is proven that he was a real person who performed miracles. December 25th was the day chosen to celebrate his birth, even though he was likely born sometime in the spring season.

The first Christmas was celebrated on December 25th, 366. It was during the time of Roman Emperor Constantine, the first Christian Emperor. He chose that day to celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ, and a few years later, Pope Julius declared that each year on the 25th of December, Jesus's birth would be celebrated.

There are many traditions that go along with Christmas, such as decorating a Christmas tree, buying presents, and hoping that Santa will bring you toys, but none of them would matter if it weren't for the birth of Jesus Christ. Now that you know the true meaning of Christmas, open your gifts on Christmas day, and be thankful for the gift that was given over 2,000 years ago.
